Munday Party Returns to Vancouver After Attempting in Vain to Scale Unconquered Mountain in B.C. Coast Range

Government Would Be Ahead By Reducing Tax on Property, Realtors Say

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Waddington, the "killer" mountain, towered aloft and unconquered above British Columbia's Coast Range to-day for four highly experienced Alpinists returned here after a vain attempt to scale the grim battlements of the 12,100-foot peak.

Tanned by wind and sun but worn and tired by their battle with the elements, Mr. and Mrs. Don Munday, Father and I, climbed the second mountain from the Columbia, well-known Swiss guide, reported yesterday. Carefully planned, six weeks' assault on the mighty mountain had failed.

"The main peak will never be climbed," Mr. Munday declared. "Mrs. Munday and I, climbed the second mountain from the Columbia, well-known Swiss guide, reported yesterday. Carefully planned, six weeks' assault on the mighty mountain had failed.

The party's final attempt on Waddington was made from a camp twenty miles up the giant Franklin Glacier after a storm which had driven them from the Columbia. The attempt failed, but the mountaineers were undaunted as to the hardships they endured and the dangers they faced in the perilous climb.

STARTED JULY 21
The Munday party left Vancouver July 21, and with the aid of packers, hauled supplies up the thirty-mile Franklin Glacier from Knight Inlet. They were joined at the end of the month by Hall and Father and started the assault on Glacier-topped Waddington at once.

Spokane Street Cars Run Despite Strike

CAPONE AGAIN ASKS FREEDOM

Associated Press
Washington, Aug. 28.—Alphonse Capone, the convicted Chicago gangster, to-day asked the United States Supreme Court to review the judgment of lower courts denying him a writ of habeas corpus filed against A. C. Adelaid, warden of the Atlanta penitentiary.

The walk-out was accomplished without violence, although the strikers massed near the car barns, jeering each non-striking operator as he took his bus out.

On some lines buses were being run approximately on schedule, and on others a holiday schedule was adopted.

Frank T. Post, president of the Spokane United Railways, said fifty-nine buses due to leave the barns this morning were in operation by mid-morning. Forty-one of them were in regular operation and eighteen by special drivers. It was pointed out, however, that on some

NEW MARKETING BOARD OF CANADA STARTS WORK

The five members of Canada's recently appointed Marketing Board, who are now engaged in the first stages of their big task are shown above. They are, left to right: Clive B. Davidson, of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics; Albert Gosselin, of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa; Dr. J. F. Booth, of the Economics Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. The function of the board is not to do the actual buying or selling for the producers, but to investigate schemes submitted to it by producers and make recommendations to the Minister of Agriculture, who, in turn, will bring the proposals before the Cabinet.

Hart Confident On Success Of Refunding Plan

KING'S SON IS ENGAGED

With Co-operation of Dominion Government Scheme Will Be Introduced in Near Future, Says Finance Minister

Confidence that his refunding plan which will effect a great reduction in the present heavy financial charges of British Columbia will be consummated in the near future with the co-operation of the Dominion Government, was voiced to-day by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance. Falling interest rates will help the scheme.

The announcement was one of several encouraging signs of a brightening on the financial horizon noted by Mr. Hart, who returned to Victoria Sunday from conference with Premier Bennett and government officials at Ottawa.

Mr. Hart also announced that the federal government had cut interest rates on the province's indebtedness to the Dominion from 5 to 4½ per cent.

He was able to arrange for financing of direct relief to March 31 next which will amount to approximately $8,000,000 in addition to the grant of $1,200,000 from the Dominion Government.

The engagement follows the departure a short time ago of the Prince of Blood, Yugoslavia, on a visit to King Alexander when rumors of a pending alliance were first made. The Prince is thirty-one and his bride, Princess Olga, is twenty-seven. Her father is a brother of the late King Constantine of Greece.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS

City List Opens Saturday; New System of Declarations This Year

Registration of voters for the 1934 city list will start on Saturday, September 1. It was announced this morning by Frank Hunter, city clerk. It continues until the end of October.

Under a changed system of registering, it will not be necessary for many people to take declarations this year, Mr. Hunter explained. The Municipal Act has been amended so that householders and licensees who were qualified to vote last year need not register again unless their qualifications have been changed. Property owners go on the list automatically.

The new system will mean extra work for the city officials who have to check over all the householders and licensees registered last year and make sure their qualifications, such as payment of road and poll tax, and license fees, are in order.

Normally about 1,300 declarations are made each year by this class of voter, but this probably will be reduced with the changes.

Registration used to be made in Victoria in the same manner up to about thirteen years ago, when it was decided that householders and licensees should register each year. At the last session of the Legislature the act was amended to eliminate liability of all over the province.

The voters' list this year will be printed by the Victoria Printing and Publishing Company, who were awarded the tender by the City Council yesterday evening at 88 a.m.

The funeral probably will be held on Thursday.

STRIKE THREAT AT COAL MINE

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The first marketing scheme approved under the new legislation was announced to-day by Minister of Agriculture Robert Weir. It applies to British Columbia fruit growers.

The scheme will be administered by a provisional board of three—George A. Barratt, Kelowna, B.C.; Walter B. alkina, Penticton, B.C.; and Morris W. Hemming, Gyro, B.C.

The fruit of British Columbia, as outlined under the act passed at the last session of Parliament, submitted to the central board in Ottawa, a scheme to regulate the marketing of their products. It was limited to tree fruit. When it was approved to-day, it became the first to operate in Canada.

As soon as possible, fruit growers in the interior of British Columbia will be registered and a local board elected to succeed the provisional board announced to-day. The head of the board in Kelowna and members of the board will be elected for one-year periods.

The scheme gives authority to the local board to regulate the time and quantity of British Columbia fruit placed on the market.

Watsonville, Cal., Aug. 28.—Threatening to throttle activities in the lettuce picking and lettuce and apple packing industries of the Salinas valley, a strike of more than 8,000 white and Filipino workers was set for 2 p.m. to-day.

Although major employers indicated they believed demands of the workers could be settled amicably, members of the Vegetable Workers' Association, a committee of white workers, voted unanimously here and six to one at Salinas yesterday evening in favor of to-day's walkout. The Filipino union voted to strike last week, but deferred action until the white workers' union met.

yield a reasonable return on the physical value of the investment. Most vacant property owners were in a hopeless position.

Proprietary owners had lost heart, the stores closed. The tendency was to throw up properties. Many of those who were hanging on had no funds with which to make repairs and this resulted in lower rents, lower returns and finally complete collapse of the market.

Major Holman said it has been estimated that 50 per cent of the unemployed in the province were connected with the building trades. Many of these would not be unemployed if real property taxes had been reduced. Many would find employment if real property taxes were substantially reduced because a reduction in taxes would leave many owners with funds to make repairs.

Lofty Peak of Mt. Waddington Defeats Climbers

The Sundays were the first to make the long, steep, arduous ascent and they have made several expeditions into the wild region near the mountain. Hall made an unsuccessful attempt to climb Waddington last year and Fuhrer is a veteran guide noted for his excellent judgment in ice and snow. He was engaged for several seasons in Jasper National Park.

RECENT MONARCH

The rock monarch has already claimed one life this season. On June 26, Alex. Daigle, of Vancouver, fell to his death as he and three companions made an unsuccessful attempt to scale the ice-crusted precipice of the mountain.

The Sundays, en route to the Waddington region, met a group of Vancouver Alpinists returning after burying the body amid the high snows of Buckler Glacier, far up the mountain. The climbers were a small reminder of the dangers they would face in their own assault on the unconquered southeast peak.

TWO U.S. FLIERS IN GREENLAND

Associated Press
Hartford, Conn., Aug. 28.—Dr. Richard Upjohn Light and Robert French Wilson, companions on an air cruise which may extend around the world, have reported the successful completion of a 6,000-mile hop from Cartwright, Labrador, to Julianash, Greenland.

A message announcing their arrival at Julianash was received yesterday evening by Clark C. Rodman of West Hartford, an amateur radio operator.

The message read: "Landed Greenland after good crossing six hours. Radio haywire." It was signed "Dick."

Dr. Light, research assistant at the Yale Medical School, and Wilson of New York, N.Y., his radio operator, left New Haven, Conn., on a nonstop flight last week. They declined to announce their destination and many of their friends believed they were bound for a world-girding air cruise. Rodman, whose station is serving as a radio base for the fliers, had tried unsuccessfully to get in touch with the plane many hours.

THOUSANDS GO ON STRIKE AT PRISON

AUSTRIA HOLDS DOWN NAZIS

But Canadian Press Writer Finds They Still Do Some Sniping

Following is the second of a series of special articles mailed by George Hambleton, European Staff Correspondent of the Canadian Press

Innsbruck, Austria, Aug. 11.—From Munich the train climbs slowly to the Austrian frontier. Among these forested mountains, Bavaria almost disappears into the Tyrol. The road for a half at the frontier town of Kufstein is double examination of passports and a double inquisition into currency, one scarcely notes the change. Uniforms differ. The language is the same.

Yet one is quickly brought face to face with the Nazis. On the plain below lies Munich, where, fourteen years ago, Hitler founded the Nazi party in a beer hall. There he held his first meeting. There the Austrian Legion had its headquarters. From Munich, propaganda was directed to bring Austria into the Reich. Munich is the home of the Nazis.

NAZIS IN GERMANY

At the first train stop on the Austrian side of the frontier, the scene changes: A huge placard in red and black letters makes no secret of its opinion about the Nazis. It is the placard of an Austrian anti-Nazi party. The traveler is emphatically told that the real murderers of Dolfus are Nazis.

"Dolfus is dead. In the name of God, barbarism, the murderers and their helpers of the Third Reich refused the assistance of a doctor and a priest to the dying man."

MANY POSTERS

Not the placard alone. Placards of this organization or that about from every billboard for an independent Austria. Dolfus has been raised to a cult. His sayings, his policies, are held forth as the new inspiration.

Only a few miles away, the Innsbruck chief of police was shot in the back by a Nazi as he entered his office. The chief was killed. The Nazi was hanged. Another Nazi who kept watch got twenty years' imprisonment.

Opposition is suppressed. Here, he is under cover, apparently safe. He swoops. Only three weeks ago, the Innsbruck chief of police was shot in the back by a Nazi as he entered his office. The chief was killed. The Nazi was hanged. Another Nazi who kept watch got twenty years' imprisonment.

And though Innsbruck is now quiet and the Nazis are in power, there is no slackening of pressure. Police notices warn local inhabitants to keep from protected points on the railways, particularly at dusk.

Unfortunate mistakes in Identity are sometimes hard to correct.

Joseph Priller, a helmschmutter from Innsbruck, a Nazi and a fugitive from a German concentration camp, is selling some of his experiences. Priller worked as an apprentice in Germany, then came to Austria. In December, he left to visit his parents in Bavaria. He was arrested, as he crossed the frontier, as a spy suspect. He was first sent to the concentration camp at Lechfeld, near Augsburg, where he was tortured. The food was scanty and the prisoners were allowed fresh meat only on Sundays. Treatment of prisoners was especially bad. For film reasons, they were beaten with leather whips.

Priller escaped from Lechfeld. He went to Innsbruck, near Munich and to the Dachau camp. There, according to his own story, he was very badly treated. "Beating with sticks," Priller charges. "Is the order of the day. The temper of the prisoners is aroused. Fights with the guards are common. Frequently men are simply stoned against a wall and driven into the ground."

Priller escaped again, and he is back in Austria.

RADIO FLASHES

FLIER IS SAFE

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The radio branch of the Marine Department to-day pierced the two-and-a-half hours of silence which surrounded the flight of John Grierson, English Arctic flier.

At 12 noon he reported flying ten miles east of Suglak, one of the northern tips of the continent, on the south side of Hudson Strait near the west end. He was heading inland for Kivik on the east side of Hudson Bay.

Chicago Teachers At Last Paid In Full

Loan From Reconstruction Finance Corporation Enables Board to Close Gap Which Existed Since January

Associated Press
Chicago, Aug. 26.—The wolf which had lived at the door so long he seemed like one of the family was chased away from the Chicago school teachers' door with a collection of sticks and stones. The teachers were paid in full—for the first time in seven months. Cheques ranged from $500 to $2,000.

It was estimated the total payment would give Chicago teachers $100,000,000 worth of relief, and that every dollar will be paid out before the end of the year.

Such was the money, "the teachers have had to experience the pleasure comes out," MURKIN.

"There is no place with get married," said Mrs. Mary Murphy, principal education instructor, as she had her place in the three-block-long waiting line.

"I might get a new car," said Teacher James Torkill. "I have ordered a suit and an overcoat."

The group, consisting of the reconstruction Finance Corporation loaned the school board some $52,000,000, placing 17,000 board of education employees back in the retail market.

Clothes, permanent waves, manicures, and cosmetics, the boy to college, there were some of the things the teachers had in mind.

CLERK ROBBED IN TORONTO

Canadian Press

Toronto, Aug. 26.—Gloved over the head by two thugs as he crossed the St. Clair Avenue and Dufferin Street intersection, Norman Gardiner was knocked semi-conscious and robbed of $500 yesterday. Gardiner, drug-store clerk, was on his way to deposit the money in a bank.

The hold-up was executed in view of some other citizens, but the three ran to a waiting automobile before citizens could give chase. The hold-up men followed Gardiner across the street and lured him under cover of what appeared to be an accident stumble. One of the men聲音 a club and grabbed the catchet.

NO GRANTS FOR WELFARE WORK

Friendly Help Supported Entirely By Voluntary Subscriptions

The Friendly Help Welfare Association, which, with its sister organizations in Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich, will appeal to the public of Greater Victoria for $20,000, starting October 15, is supported entirely by voluntary subscription. It receives no civic or municipal grant and is dependent entirely on kind-hearted persons who realize the suffering going on among the unfortunate families of the city and surrounding district.

Many people, who wish to help along this splendid cause, pay their subscriptions monthly. The donation is small, but the sum total is great due to the continuation in existing to carry on throughout the year.

The needs of the unfortunate families in Greater Victoria are, of course, much greater in the winter. Fuel is an important item and many families are in need of just that item. If it were not for the friendly help carry on, the association would not be able to meet these fuel supplies.

With school days coming again the headquarters of the association at 1384 Pandora Avenue are busy with anxious mothers in search of warm clothes and stout shoes for their children. The children go to school without proper clothing, and they can always be outfitted by the Friendly Help Welfare Association provided those in Victoria in better circumstances do their bit.

Work Asked On Island Roads

City Council Will Request Province For Malahat Improvements

Expenditure of part of the provincial government's public works loan from Ottawa on improvement of the Island Highway, especially on the Malahat, will be sought by the city council.

Yesterday evening it was decided to instruct the city's delegates to the Good Roads League convention at Kamloops in October to secure backing for this request at the meeting.

Alderman John Worthington, who initiated the motion, said: "The road is in deplorable condition.

The roadway is narrow and the edges broken. There should be twice as much money spent on it."

Alderman James Adams drew attention to the poor condition of Burnside Road beyond the city limits.

Says City Money Was Squandered

Alderman Andrew McGavin yesterday evening continued his attempt to have the City Council negative its action in paying the Bank of Montreal $1,200 a year to take care of its sinking fund securities.

According to a report of the City Comptroller, the securities' total value is $4,000,000. They were left in the bank's care as protection against robbery.

"There never was a time when the city's money was as lavishly squandered as in this thing," said Alderman McGavin. "I'm going to move at every meeting until it's done that the motion covering this action be rescinded. The treasurer and the receiver can handle these as they have done for fifty years. They are both under $10,000 bond and the most they ever clip on coupons at one time is $11,375."

Relief Inquiry Will Be Held

City Council to Probe Charges By Walter Inward of Maladministration

The City Council yesterday evening appointed a special committee to investigate charges by Walter Inward that the city relief administration has not been properly handled.

The committee will consist of Alderman Andrew McGavin, Walter Loney, R. C. Dewar and T. W. C. MacKenzie.

A lengthy debate took place on the point. Mr. Inward charges relief finances have not been properly administered. He has written several letters to the council about it and received several answers, but is not satisfied. It was decided to have the special committee to have the investigation committee. Mr. Inward's main contention has to do with the relief he has received himself, he explained.

RELIEF ONUS IS BROACHED

The question of responsibility for the unemployment relief was before the City Council when yesterday it voted in a resolution from the Workmen's Compensation League of Canada, urging that all relief for emergencies be undertaken by the federal government.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar would have endorsed the resolution outright, but it was pointed out there was no action on the part of the government. One resolution was passed, so to the legislative committee of the council which is recommending with reference to associations, owing to the Union of Municipalities convention in Octo-

TAXI RATES ARE APPROVED

City to Go Ahead With By-law Covering Minimum Schedule

Amendments to the streets, traffic and Regulation By-law in respect of taxi-cabs and night-cab rates were submitted by the business and trade development committee and approved by the City Council yesterday evening.

The rates are fixed at a minimum of 25 cents for the first eight-tenths of a mile or less, 10 cents for each additional half mile and ten cents for additional passengers over four. Waiting charges will be chargeable at $1.20 per hour.

Flat rate charges are placed at a minimum of 50 cents per hour for four passengers and 60 cents an hour for each additional passenger.

Maximum rates, it is specified, must not be more than twice the minimum.

Ridehailing rates are fixed at 6¢ per hour per person as a minimum. No action was taken on proposals to have tax-meters and insurance made compulsory, due to the expense of the latter, this being left over for one year.

The collector was instructed to prepare a by-law embodying the schedule.

Public Buys When Product Is Right

Maintain a high standard of quality in a product, advertise it consistently, and people will value it and be faithful to it in good times and bad." That, in a sentence, is the experience of The Canadian Standard Wheat Company Limited.

In line with this experience during the depression, the company has again widened the scope of its advertising message and sales of Standard Wheat are already mounting in consequence. This product, presented in a simple "number one" bag, conforms to the medical advocacy of whole wheat served with fruit and milk or cream as the ideal summer diet. This combination provides the maximum economy to both the manufacturer and to the consumer.

The company is one of Canada's most consistent newspaper advertisers, but it was pointed out there was no action on the part of the government. One resolution was passed, so to the legislative committee of the council which is recommending with reference to associations, owing to the Union of Municipalities convention in Octo-

Lake Float Said To Be Dangerous

Steps to correct an allegedly dangerous condition existing at the Elk Lake bathing float at Hammett Lakeside were taken yesterday evening by the City Council.

The Victoria-Beach and Park Committee reported the float was not in good repair and the surface and diving board were in a dangerous condition. It was also stated the float was not in water deep enough for safe use as a high diving board.

The city water commissioner was instructed to inspect the float, and, if necessary, order its removal.

Ridehailing rates are fixed at 6¢ per hour per person as a minimum.

No action was taken on proposals to have tax-meters and insurance made compulsory, due to the expense of the latter, this being left over for one year.

The collector was instructed to prepare a by-law embodying the schedule.

MALAHAT BOARD OF TRADE MEETS

Shawnigan Lake, Aug. 28.—The Malahat Board of Trade held its monthly meeting last week with President William Mudge in the chair. Two new members were elected: A. H. Cox and Major Lowe. The Public Works Committee reported progress in the work to have the lake outlet cleared of logs and debris. The Minister of Public Works promised full assistance. It is hoped definite action will be taken before the weather breaks.

A letter from Major J. A. Mather, who is in charge of sport fish management was read. The Moberly Lake was keenly interested in Shawnigan Lake, and the board is co-operating.

The committee on the Island Fish and Game convention at Ladysmith gave a report and endorsed the resolution to have a branch committee.

The Malahat Board of Trade Legion held a meeting in the G.I.A. Hall, Friday evening, J. B. Bell, president, welcomed the guests and a programme of song, story and musical numbers was enjoyed. There were 100 members in attendance.

The body, recovered from the Pitt River late yesterday, had a pocket around the neck, filled with a car key, several watches, timing device, and weighing about 50 pounds.

Medical evidence at the inquest yesterday stated there were no external marks of violence on the body.

FENCE AT RACE TRACK REFUSED

Contention of the Colwood Park Racing Association that a high board fence is needed at Willow race track to protect the public at the south turn of the track in far-reached, Alderman Andrew McGavin declared yesterday evening when the association's request that the city fit the fence was before the City Council.

He said the proposed fence was for the purpose of stopping the public from seeing the races and what should be done was that the bleachers be built to the same height.

His motion that the company be informed the request was unreasonable was passed by the council.

CITY PETITIONS FOR FREE PORT

Victoria to Ask Ottawa For Free Trade Zone Here

Victoria will fight for free port rights, despite legal rulings that it has no status in this regard.

After hearing the opinion of the city's counsel on the question, the council decided to petition the federal government for creation of a free port here.

Sponsored by Alderman John A. Worthington and T. W. Hawkins, the resolution received unanimous endorsement.

It proposed the petition ask Ottawa for the consideration of the extinguishment of pre-confederation rights, a free trade zone be created at or near the City of Victoria as a means of expanding facilities for Canadian overseas trade, subject to payment of duties on imports and that no restrictions may be imposed on the free port zone into any Canadian territory for use or resale there.

It was decided to enlist the support of Oak Bay, Saanich, Esquimalt and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the drive for the free port here.

Little opposition was met, Alderman Worthington pointing out the whole matter, with his advantages to the city, had been thoroughly canvassed at former meetings.

Edmonton, Aug. 28.—Submission of reports by representatives of thirty-two local clubs occupied the second session of the sixth triennial conference of the Canadian Federation of University Women here. The conference ends to-morrow.

Increased circulation of The Chronicle, official federation organ, was advocated by Miss Vera Leach, conference chairwoman, as a means of increasing interest of members.

Fifteen applications were received for the 1935 federation scholarship, enabling the holder to spend one year on the continent engaged in study, the report of the scholarship committee revealed.

Dr. Margaret Cameron, professor of English literature at the University of British Columbia, was the successful applicant for the 1934 award.

Work done by federation members in assisting with organization and functioning of travelling libraries was outlined in the report of the library committee. Co-operating with the Canadian government, several prominent Canadian universities and women have been instrumental in increasing library facilities in various parts of the Dominion. Particular fields of activity are the Maritime provinces and the Valley in British Columbia, the report said.

Mr. R. C. Wallace, Edmonton, guest speaker at a "coffee group" luncheon in Athabasca Hall at mid-day to-day outlined the organization and operation of the Banff School of Drama, which he recently visited.

The drama school, sponsored by the Carnegie Foundation and administered by the University of Alberta department of extension, seeks to foster growth of a national spirit of art and drama with the theatre.

THINK CANADA MAN'S COUNTRY

French Women Journalists
Say Its Women Need
More Languor

Canadian Press
Quebec, Aug. 28.—They find, the French women journalists on board the liner Champlain, that the typical Canadian woman needs a little more of the languor of the French.

"She is a thousand times right, Jacques Cartier, in giving your country the male gender in our language."

"Canada is a masculine country, vast, intractable, unconquered, impulsive, above all by its inexhaustible force."

"First the immensity of this powerful river, the immense walls of the Saguenay, outlined against the red sky, as if placed there for a scene of some dramatic purpose of primitive nature. They give the impression of power and of terror as before some incomprehensible phenomenon which could destroy at will a whole human race."

"It is a man's country. The forests, lakes, mines, vast lands, all are a challenge and appeal to the strength of man."

"Because of that women will always be subject to man here." "She is a typical Canadian woman."

"She is slight, with strong muscles, and close-cut gestures, with a clipped manner of speech, sharp sentences, often very effective. She looks straight ahead of her with uncompromising eyes."

SUPREME COURT

He might continue as a judge for another term of the court.

Mr. Justice Hughes, formerly of Toronto, was appointed to the Supreme Court about a year ago.

Campaign To Quiet London At Night

Motorists Respond to Measures and Greatly Reduce Noises, But Traffic Is Slowed Down

London, Aug. 28.—London's campaign to quiet the big city during sleeping hours was inaugurated with complete success half hour before last midnight. There was a stillness never heard in half hours that astonished the town.

By order of the Ministry of Transport, the sounding of automobile horns and sirens was prohibited between 11:30 p.m. and 7 a.m. in a five-mile area from Charing Cross. Motorists showed a complete readiness to respond and 3,000 extra police, posted throughout the area, were rarely obliged to caution drivers.

But the order seemed to create a far more general desire for peace. Even the late-night outpouring from theatres, with the usual frantic demands for taxis, was conducted in comparatively silent fashion. The first glint of sunrise banished the crowds on St. Paul's market gardeners' lorries rumbled towards Covent Garden without a single blast.

As a means of reducing night noise the experiment was undoubtedly successful. It seemed equally clear it involved a general slowdown in motor traffic.

HEALTH MEASURES NEVER UNANIMOUSLY SUPPORTED

It is literally impossible to find any measure, even of health, upon which everybody agrees. When a reader asks me what doctors think about this, that, and the other thing, I have to admit that I do not know, or would not even express an opinion.

CATCHES COLD EARLY

Mrs. S. F. G. is concerned about her boy's predilection for colds. She asks, "Do doctors approve of immunitizing children against colds? Or cod liver oil for the six year old?"

"I have a healthy boy of six years, who has a balanced diet, who has plenty of sun and never gets sick until he begins to go to school. His tonsils and adenoids are out, he has no sinus trouble, but he cannot resist colds. Might he be under-dressed or over-dressed? He has eight blocks to go to school. What shall I do about this fail? Please tell me I prepare him against these colds."

Some doctors use "shots" to prevent colds, but there is no unanimity of opinion about them, probably because there is no unanimity of research. Cod liver oil for the first two years is probably universal, among up-to-date practitioners. After that, it is a personal matter. The health of the child himself, his apparent need for more vitamin D, the amount of sunshine available in his climate, and the length and completeness of colds outlasts a doctor's opinion.

Some doctors advocate cod liver oil as a routine measure up to six years of age.

IMPROPERLY DRESSED

There are two possibilities here. One is that the boy is over-dressed in the schoolroom, so that he takes cold from exposure later. He may need a light coat and a light weight clothes for outdoor wear. His over load for heavy clothing is also a factor.

Is he worn bloated or does he grow cold and shivery upon exposure to the cold? Our own skin mechanisms and the other body's responses to change of temperature must be taken into consideration.

The other possibility is that there are not cells of infectious origin, but allergic cells. An examination of the skin would determine this fact. In most cases it may be necessary to make ordinary measures found in the orthopaedist's office.

instinct—something which he did not encounter in the home but to which he is now exposed daily in the schools. A series of skin tests would determine the boy's sensitivity and in this case an effort to prevent his being brought into contact with it would end the colds. The cause for the sensitivity might be common foot, but in that case the sensitivity would probably have shown up earlier.

Uncle Wiggily's Soft Crab

Not far from Uncle Wiggily's summer vacation spot, a little crab from the sandy beach, was a small crab from the ocean.

"I was captured from the ocean by a fisherman, and when the tide was high the water from the ocean flowed over me. I was the name of the small crab, and the water from the ocean was salty, but I didn't mind it."

CHAPTER XIX

There was a cabin at Wadding Hollow, of course, but it was not thought for an instant that the young Wavers had forgotten that. But while it was ideal for week-ends, perfect for a brief vacation, it was not thought of as a regular living place. For one thing, it was much too far from the city, and, in addition, the railroad. The commuting would be both difficult and expensive and on those nights when Tom was kept late, Gypsey would be quite alone in an inaccessable lonely place. It was a delightful place to come, however, and on several spring Saturdays a small car might be seen ploughing through the sandy road, spilling bundles as it went.

Sue Canavan and Hunt Gibson were down on bright, breezy Sunday in May and Sue never overpassed—the small cabin with the snug little cabin with the bunks and its oil stove and its blue curtains. They had a merry supper out of doors. Tom broiling steaks over the coals and Sue making potato salad.

"If I owned the place," Sue said reflectively, lying luxuriously on an army blanket. "I'd never leave it. I'd dig myself in and live on roots and berries." Sue was red-haired, blue-eyed, enthusiastic. She was some human's good secretary, down in the city.

"You won't," Hunt roused himself hastily to contradict her. "You're a Fifth Avenue house and you know it. You like this in small down but, deep down, you want to live a stone's throw from Times Square."

"There's something in that," Sue admitted. "But honestly, Gyp, I'm mad about this place. Why didn't we ever come here before?"

"Well, Mom was here most of last summer." Gypsey had heard it's Tom's property, really, but the family love it so they sort of have it on shares. The children adore it."

Tom caught her eye and she smiled at him, thinking of the child who might be the most certainly would-be with them this summer. Darling Tommy, how handsome he was with the sunburn blotting out his winter pallor and his long legs stretched out on the sand. What a pity they couldn't stay here all summer but forgot the job and the apartment and everything else. Well, there was no use wishing for the moon. You just had to enjoy things as they came."

Tom, on the other side of the fire, felt his heart swell with love for the small, gallant girl in the deck chair. Gypsey's color was enchanting today and the sea air had made her hair one mass of featherly ringlets.

"We could stay down to-night, perhaps," she was saying to Sue. "Tom could go up in the morning."

He said to her again, "Well, I wish we could, darling, but I've got to be so darned early."

Gypsey said briefly, cheerfully. "It doesn't matter in the least."

But he regretted because he had to disappoint her.

The apartment seemed especially small and cramped that night when she had to leave her cabin but he said slowly, "Well, I wish we could, darling, but I've got to be so darned early."

Gypsey said briefly, cheerfully. "It doesn't matter in the least."

Police Department Recovers Upper Set for Indian Woman

The police lost and found department ran into an unusual case yesterday. It is called upon to handle many peculiar things in the course of a year, but the last one takes the prize.

About a week ago an Indian woman reported she had lost a valuable set of upper false teeth in a restaurant. The police officials were a little puzzled as to how this could happen, but, always willing, took on the search.

Application of the Canadian Lumber Company for water-let rights in the harbor in connection with the building of the new mill will not be opposed by the City Council, it was decided yesterday evening.

Dr. H. H. Wiggin, child specialist of the Department of Education, will speak over radio station CFCT at 6:30 o'clock this evening on the subject of "The New Discipline."

George L. Warren, Victoria and Island publicity commissioner, was appointed as delegate of the bureau to attend the meeting of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus scheduled for Ottawa in October.

A total of 11,000 forest fires in British Columbia at the end of last year, against 707 in the corresponding period last year, was reported by the forest branch of the Department of Lands to-day, with conditions hot and hazardous.

The Industrial Relations Board of the provincial government will meet to-morrow at the Parliament Buildings. The meeting is called for the purpose of the men to confer routine business, add, perhaps, discussion of the board's functions.

The line-up of the Hudson's Bay Company team, for the match at Beacon Hill to-morrow, is as follows: Victoria, fallow: Hanson, Dixon, Gilman, Gandy, Baker, Turner, J. Cushman, E. Gandy, Gardner, Peacock and Kerville.

Hunters are also preparing their arms now for the opening of the grouse season.

Dates of Membership Campaign Are Confirmed as From Oct. 5 to 15

First aid service and parrot checking facilities at the provincial fair next month will again be provided by the C.P.C. The C.P.C. and the manufacturer's stand will be in the Manufacturers' Building. Immediately to the left of the entrance gate.

Arrangements for the booth were completed at a meeting of the membership committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. H. B. Sofebottom, yesterday evening.

The first aid department will again be in the capable hands of Ernest Herod.

The booth will also be used to wine before the public the various parrots and other birds, and members of the staff will be continually on hand to give any information, and to interview prospective candidates for the public-speaking class, which begins in the fall.

The committee will meet again at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, September 6, to close up any further details which may arise in connection with the stand.

The dates for the fall membership campaign were definitely confirmed as October 5 to 15 in the course of yesterday evening's meeting.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—My wife claims that because of my constant ill-treatment of her she has lost her love for me and that without love she will not go on living with me. We have two sons, one twelve and the other eleven, whom we love very love, but she says it is best for the boys if we part. My wife is of opinion divorce. I consider myself the better. We both work. We both are ill-tempered at times. Her physical condition is not what it should be. I fear for her future. She says that if we patch up our difficulties it would be hell on earth for all of us due to her loss of love, but I do not believe this. Knowing the extent and fullness of her love, she also says that I will be the same within six months, but I have had my terrible lesson. I want my wife to leave her outside work as now my business has improved and it is not necessary for her to work. What is your advice in the matter? H. G. V.

Answer—The remedy is very simple and easily applied. It consists of a railway or shipper's ticket. Send your wife off from actual experience what breaking up her home and separation from you will mean, and my word for it, she will come back to you as eagerly as a bride.

Appeal to her as a fair-minded woman not to ruin you and the boys' lives without giving absence a chance to do its perfect work. Tell her that she can get a divorce one time as well as another and that you will not oppose her if she finds out that she cannot forgive you for your unkind treatment.

I am firmly convinced that more than half of the divorces could be prevented if only disgruntled husbands and wives would try the advice mentioned on themselves first. A couple get fed up on each other and reach the point where everything each does irritates the other. They can see nothing but blemishes in each other and they pull over old quarrels until they make mountains out of mole hills. Very often they are worn out and nervous and would be irritable with anyone, and they find their perfect target in those to whom they are married.

They think that the only solution to their problem is divorce and that if they could only be freed from each other then they would enter into a sort of Nirvana in which they would be young and happy and gay and carefree as they were before they were married.

So they rush to the divorce court, but when they get their divorce they find out that they are worse off than they were before. They are still middle-aged and tired. They are still irritable and they have nobody to quarrel with. And they are blemished and friendless and, in the case of the woman, they are generally confronted with the problem of having to earn their own living.

It is quite true that any couple who quarrel continually with each other need to be separated, but they should make it a temporary instead of a permanent parting. Six months will generally do the trick and convince a woman that a husband with a bad temper is better than no husband at all, and bring it home to a man that a wife may have virtues that offset her nagging, and that at any rate a home is a mighty uncomfortable place without a woman in it.

Six months will also give a husband and wife time to have a few heart-to-heart sessions with themselves and to realize that each was to blame. It might make even the most tactless woman see that it is worthwhile to groan around her husband's peculiarities rather than to row with him about them and it might make a stingy husband loosen up or a grumpy one cheer up.

And it would make many a couple who thought they had enough to love each other realize that the bond between them was stronger than they thought and that some way, somehow, it still held and that if they were not ideally happy together they are miserable apart.

I think your wife will make a terrible mistake if she leaves you without giving you a chance to prove your repentance. If will be a chance for her to deprive her children of a father who loves them more who will be able to give them a better chance in life than the wife. And she will be bitterly unhappy herself if in ill-health and since she attempts to support herself and the children. For better for her to stay the six-months-absence prescription, which I am sure is a panacea for the situation.

DEAR MISS DIX—is it advisable for a young couple to get married on a salary that will allow them the necessities of life but not all of the luxuries? I am engaged to a young man whom I love very much, but he wants to put our marriage off until he can give me everything my heart could desire, but I would be perfectly content on his present salary. Do we are bringing our problem to you. We are both old enough to know our own minds and that we really and truly love each other.

TRROUBLED.

I think the young people who have a modest amount to live on should get married rather than wait, because in long engagements something of the glamour of love goes. The romance just peters out and the long-delayed wedding brings none of the happiness and thrill that the loves expected just because they have grown tired of waiting. Furthermore, by waiting a young couple deprive themselves of one of the finest experiences that can come to anyone, that of working out their fortunes together. That makes life a great adventure. Scrapping, planning, toiling, doing without things for the sake of giving something to each other, are just fun if done together.

So take your courage in both hands and marry while you are young. It is only in youth that we see the circling wings and the trailing clouds of glory.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am fifteen pounds overweight and everybody teases me about being fat. If I walk down the street with a young man, somebody speaks about his being seen out with a fat girl. I have been told that if I were not so plump I would be one of the most attractive girls in our school. This has given me an inferiority complex. I think of nothing but being fat. I want to yell and scream at people who insist on telling me how nice and plump I am. Why can't people sympathize with me instead of making fun of me? Am I being narrow-minded? HURT.

Answer—I should say you are worse than narrow-minded. You are a nitwit if you take fifteen pounds so seriously. That is a mere trifling, get rid of the superfluous flesh! Anyway, why not take your standard of plumpitude? Curves are the line of beauty, not angles.

DOROTHY DIX.

MAKING DASH INTO ARCTIC

Mission Boat Hopes to Reach Isolated Island to Pick Up Missionary

Churchill, Man., Aug. 26.—The good ship Plus XI ploughed a furrow across Hudson Bay waters to-day bound for the north in a race with winter. If successful, Roland Capt. John Robertson, her skipper, will return before frozen-up with a pocky missionary who has waited years for a return to civilization.

In a diocese as large as all England, Rev. N. W. Nason has had a primitive existence for four years, ministering to the Eskimo population of Baffin Bay, Labrador, and the Arctic.

His headquarters are at Igloolik Island, a good-sized spot at the eastern end of Fury and Hecla Straits, far off the beaten track of white men.

During his lonely exile to the sub-Arctic he was treated from one end of the vast island to the other.

The church has been the wide-open space and his congregation, wandering bands of Eskimos. By dint of hard labor and with some assistance he has a small native house at Igloolik, where natives gathered at certain times of the year.

Last year his mission house burned down. It was built of bits of driftwood, an old packing case and pieces of iron. For the past year he has been living in a small native house of skins and wood which he salvaged from the sea.

Four tons of supplies were loaded aboard the Plus, destined for missions at Chesterfield Inlet and Repulse Bay, and the 100-ton vessel, the final day, will be made to Igloolik.

Ample supplies are aboard should an early freeze-up prevent a return of the rescue ship this summer.

H.M.S. Norfolk At Vancouver

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Vice-Admiral Sir R. R. Plunkett-Bruce-Bridgeman, G.O., D.O., R.N., commander-in-chief of the British West Indies Squadron, arrived here yesterday aboard H.M.S. Norfolk.

The Norfolk, a 10,000-ton cruiser completed in 1928, is a new type of warship to Vancouver. Heavier than the Malaya, she has a 100-ton gun and made the annual visit here since the war, she carries eight eight-inch guns as her main armament.

She will be joined here by H.M.S. Dane, a 4,800-ton light cruiser to-morrow.
